All I thought I wanted was a front door
All I thought I wanted was a place in the country
Now I realize I wanted so much more
Some I love but you I adore

You think you're really swinging but you're off the beat
The moves your brains a thinking doesn't reach your feet
You got to get this complication out your head
Or find another man instead

All I thought I wanted was a front door
All I thought I wanted was a place in the country
Now I realize I wanted so much more
Some I love but you I adore

You listen very close to what the bad girls said
In all those crumby articles and in my bed
You say I'm just a stripper not afraid to strip
I got my brains rattlin' my hips

All I thought I wanted was a front door
All I thought I wanted was a place in the country
Now I realize I wanted so much more
Some I love but you I adore

You've got the kind of looks that make a dead man stare
But when it comes to working honey, you ain't there
I try to tell you nicely but the screaming starts
You're playing ping pong with my heart

All I thought I wanted was a front door
All I thought I wanted was a place in the country
Now I realize I wanted so much more
Some I love but you I adore

All I thought I wanted was a front door
All I thought I wanted was a place in the country
Now I realize I wanted so much more
I've heard enough, I want to hear no more

All I thought I wanted was a front door
All I thought I wanted was a place in the country
Now I realize I wanted so much more
Some I love but you I adore

All I thought I wanted was a front door
All I thought I wanted was a place in the country
Now I realize I wanted so much more
I've heard enough, I want to hear no more
