Look at me, I am the crippled now
Could you ever hold me again?
Did you ever look and see what I was Ever was I known when I was true?
And if this is all I am
Then peace becomes my rotten soul

They split themselves apart
And chase away those adored
They leave behind the binding hope
They chose to fight, in fear of this
I hear a million cries
Pleas: only _to be heard_
I see a million smiles
Pasted on faces of pain

They are scaling worlds

Oblivious to their own
All for fear of being hurt
All for fear of being known

All on their own
Never asking on
They fall
Martyrs for lies

Forget: your prejudice
Embrace: me just once
Set aside the horrid smiles
Fall with me to know this vision
The lights blur and become as one
None are left to fend or restore
And time no longer forces fear
For we know now what we share
Forget, embrace, the time will come
