sometimes i wake up so crazy i can't figure why you make me look through your window and i start to fly high you're always brighter than bright is and you're always brighter than that
and i like that

you make the night time tremble
you make the morning live well you make my life
with what you give

somedays i follow the sun rays
out to the sea wall
i see you shadow the beaches until the night fall
you're always lighter than light is

brighter
you're so brighter

i see you follow the beaches
