

Juno

"The Sea Looked Like Lead"

Visit "The Sea Looked Like Lead" on MotoLyrics.com

Bisect the polar opposites and tilt the world on its axis.
Kill us to suit your selfishness. Then dim the stars to hide the evidence. Cover yourself to conceal the obvious and give my regards to anyone who ever mattered more than this did. You must have done something right. How the sea looked like lead. Flat as the sky and just as dead- when everything we loved came to an end. But there's no consolation anyone can possibly give. You must have done something right.
You must have done something right? You must have...but I'll be damned if I know what it is. But that's how you win. That's how you win.

Visit Juno page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.