I heard its not a question,
But a situation, and a bad one at that
Who do you trust, who's side are you on?
Does she even need to know

Well I'm not searching for your advice
I just don't know where my loyalty lies
How can you say that I should do what I should do
With so much riding on my words?
Should I speak the truth and bear the look on her face?

And does she even need to know about the things that go around behind her back?
She's not asking, he's not telling her
Can't it all just go away?

Well I'm not searching for your advice
I just don't know where my loyalty lies
How can you say that I should do what I should do
With so much riding on my words?
Should I speak the truth and bear the look on her face?

I just need to decide where my loyalty lies,
I just need to decide where my loyalty lies,
I just need to decide where my loyalty lies,
I just need to decide where my loyalty lies!

How can you say that I should do what I should do
With so much riding on my words?
Should I speak the truth and bear the look on her face?
The look on her face...
