Crows capturing buildings and rats camped in a drain Fireflies caught and cannoned in the rain

Seams of secret people awaiting the shafts that set them free

They make themselves a home inside of me

Armies of children and ghosts of Suffragettes Make merry in the cauldron of my chest

Bodies dumped in ditches and stowaways at sea

They make themselves a home inside of me
They make themselves a home inside of me

A fistfight at a wedding
A killing on the stairs
The brilliant spark at the start of love affairs

Your tenderness's blessing and your assassin's accuracy

They make themselves a home inside of me
They make themselves a home inside of me
