When you're swallowing all your pride
Do you need somewhere a place to hide?
A smile from your face
Where the light comes shining through
All its strength, it came from you

It's lost now, all that age before I knew you
Is it that forever is hard to find?
You made me recognize
What I'd been leaving far behind
Is it closing in on you like it was on me?

This time I'm saved by the music
Saved by the song that you bring

When you're following all life's lies
And find its meaning and truth still hides
Don't cover your face
Let the warmth come flowing through
Welcome dawn, new morning dew

This time I'm saved by the music
Saved by the song we can sing
This time I'm saved by the music
Saved by the song that you bring

When you're swallowing all life's lies
This time we're saved by the music
Saved by the song we can sing

This time we're saved by the music
Saved by the song we can sing
This time we're saved
