We could've started all over again
Over again, yeah
I bet you still think about it every now and again
Now and then I bet you still think about
A way to figured me out and pull a couple strings
You always said you were good at fixing broken things
Collect your winnings and start from the beginning again
Over again, over again

[Chorus]

You keep putting me off again and on again
Another lover or a different design
You keep me spinning around and around again
Same thing every time

It's time to practice your part over and over again
Over again, yeah
The conversational art of winning over your friends
I guess it depends on the mood that you're in Some words from Dr. Phil
Some more milk to spill
A nice touch with my picture on your window sill
I shouldn't buy it again, but I probably will Believe it again, over again

[Chorus]

You keep putting me off again and on again
Another lover or a different design
You keep me spinning around and around again
The same thing every time

It feels so comfortable
So predictable
The needle spins through the same little record groove
It brings me back to you
But I'm getting ready to move
To something new, babe
So how 'bout you, babe
How 'bout you, babe

[Chorus]

You keep putting me off again and on again
Another lover or a different design
You keep me spinning around and around again
The same thing every time

How 'bout you, babe
How 'bout you, babe
How 'bout you, babe

Yeah, yeah, yeah
