I wish I were a mountainside
As cold as earth and way up high
Where no one would ever dare to climb
And maybe there might come a day
When I'd be beautiful from far away
Hidden in the half-light of the morning grey

But it's not that there's some secret place in me
That I just wouldn't let her see

[Chorus]
No, she
She doesn't believe
She doesn't believe in me

I wish I were a storybook
And like a lonely child, every night
You'd look deep into me and fall in love with what you see
And the more that you believed in me
The deeper and more real I would be Deeper even than reality

But it's not that there's some secret place inside
That I just wouldn't let her find

[Chorus]
No, she
She doesn't believe
Doesn't believe in me

But if I only held her differently
And if I touched her more convincingly
Maybe it's not even any of those little things
Maybe it was just
Maybe it was just me

[Chorus]
No, she
She doesn't believe
No, she
She doesn't believe

No, she
She doesn't believe in me
