Dear Son,

There's no time for love Charlie Brown

And if I should come up it'll only bring

Your mother down, so I'll send you ten

Shillings as we have arranged and I'll

Take second billing because I never have change

My mind once it's made up, and it's made up,

Charlie Brown.

Father.

Dear Dad,

Mother's found her golden gown and she's

Drove to the end of town, I'm here alone

Why don't you come home, you know you've let

Poor Charlie down, with "I'll send you ten

Shillings as we have arranged" and "I'll

take second billing because I never have change

Good grief,

Charlie Brown.
