The leaves have lost hold of the branches as always
Which leaves us with gold and wine colored pathways

In the same way I've
In the same way I've fallen for you

You opened your arms like a school door to summer days
And opened my heart to rumors of a higher place

Now where was I?
Baby, I've fallen for you

Love is always on the go
It never stays in one place
Day by day it changes and it grows
But you always recognize its face

Day to day it changes and it grows
But you always recognize its face

The leaves have lost hold of the branches as always
Which leaves us with gold and wine colored pathways

In the same way I've
In the same way I've fallen for you

Like a star in the night
Baby, I've fallen for you
