When we're all gone,
You won't wonder where we went
Cause you'll be sitting with your friends
That your parents bought
Counting all their tens...
You never earned anything

But when it's gone
You will be bored so you will wonder where we went
You'll look back on all those times
That you made fun of us and laugh at us again
But this time you will be laughing all alone
Cause you'll have nothing but your old letterman coat

And when you hear us on your crappy radio
You will wish that you had tickets to see our show

If it all depends
On what we did back then
Then yeah, we'll be alright
But you, you're screwed.

So when you feel down
Cause you're still living in your hometown
You will look at me on your TV
And wonder who should be treated bad now
