"Now let me tell you who I am" -> Kane

[K-Solo]

I was in my room writing rhymes I H-A-D had

Next to my room was a laboratory run by my D-A-D dad

He was a professor, and I'm his S-O-N

So my life as a professor had just begun, my name is

K-E-V-I-N-M-A-D-I-S-O-N run the experiment I qualify and become a good professor in medicine

I ran out my door, and I looked for a breakbeat, spelling book, and grabbed my dog,

"Woof!"

Rhymes that I had, every muscle from his body

The combination of that will give me strength, to rock a party

I thought that I might, get H-U-R-T hurt

if I used dad's melachalonin machine that was known to convert

No manual that I could find on dad's machine

I hit a button and this rumor turned the laboratory green

Some hairs was from my dog and a pair from mine

Hit the switch I spelled a rhyme the chromosome, will mix with mine

This uncanny combination will let the world understand

Professor Kevin Madison changed to the incredible Letterman!
