Well she's got a heart
That won't break again
She knows how to smile
But she holds it in
Looks like her confidence has left her by the road
She gave up on love
A long time ago

She's got an opened ended heartache
A love song never sung
A promise always broken
A battle never won
In a crowd of a million faces
She'll be the saddest one
She's got an open ended heartache

She's got a bed
Soaked in her tears
She thought she knew love
Love disappeared
All that was left were burning embers on the ground
She sifted for hope
But none could be found

Just like a bird that never soars above the earth
She spreads her wings
That makes it work

She's got an open ended heartache
She's got an open ended heartache
She's got an open ended heartache
