Holding off I ought to know better
Been through enough, I thought I'd just let her Pack those bags and head back wherever she came from
Once a while she had to have colors
Cold at night, she stole all the covers
That's alright, I might find another
Or just live alone

[Chorus]

Every little creeks in the crib, in the sheets that she laid
on
The stain from her lips on my glass that she drank on
T shirt left in the corner of the bathroom
Can't get away from, can't get away from
Every drop a wax from the candle that she burnt
Every chair, every table, every corner that I turn
She got away from me, but I can't get away from
Can't get away from her

Not a tile in the house didn't touch her skin
Not a place in my hand where she don't lay
Left a mark with a permanent pen,
Here I go again!

[Chorus]

Every little creeks in the crib, in the sheets that she laid
on
The stain from her lips on my glass that she drank on
T shirt left in the corner of the bathroom
Can't get away from, can't get away from
Every drop a wax from the candle that she burnt
Every chair, every table, every corner that I turn
She got away from me, but I can't get away from
Can't get away from her

She has been gone a week
I can't eat and I can't sleep
But I can't get away from

Every little creeks in the crib, in the sheets that she laid

on
The stain from her lips on my glass that she drank on
T shirt left in the corner of the bathroom
Can't get away from, can't get away from
Every drop a wax from the candle that she burnt
Every chair, every table, every corner that I turn
She got away from me, but I can't get away from
Can't get away from her
She got away from me, but I can't get away from
Can't get away from her
She got away from me, but I can't get away from
Can't get away from her.
