Verse 1

I always thought my emotions had no reflection on what I do. But that did not actually follow though. They took me down to an all time low and I had to hide what was left to show. They made me feel like I was lost from the light and they made me feel like I was losing the fight.

Chorus

My emotions took control of my life. They blocked all of my common sight. They caused me to hurt myself, but I was actually hurting everybody else. Myself and others shed tears for me, so confusing it was hard to see that Jesus is the cure for my emotions.

Verse 2

All these secrets, my emotions made me hide, and when they found me out all I mostly did was lie. All the thoughts that went through my head, and all the things that I actually said. It seems like my trust just up and went and I truly needed a miracle to be sent.

Verse 3

God wanted more for me, much more than I could see. I need to look to a brighter day, cause I can't always let my emotions have their say. God sought for me to be greater, but I kept letting my emotions tell me later. My emotions got the best of me, but God said there was more for me to be.
