"Drowning In The Shallow Waters Of Prescribed Morality"

Drowning in the shallow waters of prescribed morality, sinking in the shifting sands of conceptual 'right' and 'wrong.' Wandering aimlessly along this path as the footprints lead astray, they lead astray. Some have opened their eyes to the truth and seen that right and wrong need each other- There is no over-loomng evil. Morals and values have been tainted, constructed and reconstructed to fit a modern mold. It is painfully obvious that true desire plays no role, it plays no fucking role. Others have opened their hearts to the truth, and seen that right and wrong are essentially the same. There is no over-loomng evil, there is nowhere else to lay the blame.
