Unanswered prayers
You're still alone there
I can feel your pain
Open questions remain
But I'm certain that
You will get what you need
You will settle into your speed

All those letters to God unopened
Floating our into the ocean
All those letters to God unread
All the things you never said

The candles burn
Till the morning light returns
You move alone
Toward the truth you know
And this is not the end
You've barely begun
To find your shadow
Just wait for the sun

You're standing in the middle
Waiting for a little sign to know you've done all right
Never sure about all this
But who ever is?
No one is sure all the time
