Woke up in a panicked state
I was so afraid that nothing would be
What I wanted
I took stock of everything
Then realized that you were a liability
To me

I get so tired of unraveling
Nothing ever working
So I face what I was hiding all along
Without you I think I could be
Happier than with you maybe
You would finally learn to stop avoiding

Spent too long without a spine
Always putting up with all your demons
Covered in weakness
But now I finally realize
That I must be the one to close the door on us
And get out

This is the way
This is the hardest part
This is the hardest part of us

Maybe I was wrong
Maybe you were wrong, maybe
But does it really matter?
It's too late to place blame
We've ruined everything

Maybe I was first
Maybe you were first maybe
But does it really matter
What we've got is an ending
We must face
