"Violet Room"

From your violet room I see your shadow
From your violet sky I close my eyes
Somewhere along the line I beat the devil
We were caught up in a ring of our own disguises
So I run faster than I thought
And there you call our for me

Will wonders never cease to amaze me?
The way I collid with what you need
I pulled you too close
I must learn to let you go
And find my way back to the land of dreams

From the aging dawn there comes a shadow
And from the yellow sand I see my life
Parading aroudn through darkened windows
I was caught up in a ring of my own disguises
So I ran further than I thought
And you can't find me

This is where we contemplate,
Pontificate existing further
Out into the corners of the room
Where we're kept hidden
This is where I speculate, articulate
That I am drifting up, slowly up, slowly up
