Time has made us guess
And question the ending
I always knew you were waiting for a sign
But I do better with facts
Than signals and daydreams
Still I think I might just change my mind

Eight years ago when it started
I thought I knew everything
Sure I had learned enough to be with you
But even the strongest of us may never be ready
To align themselves with someone else just right

I gave all I could give at the time
But I didn't do so well
And I could pretend it was all your fault
But I know better now
And If we give this another go
Will our flaws do us in this time?
I think I am willing to try
I think I am willing to try

Give me what you have to give
Spin me right back into it
And find me, I am waiting for you
Don't deny me, I'm still in love with you
