(Kerry Livgren)

Every day she gets a little weaker
 The beauty she once knew has come and gone
 We've murdered all her sons and all her daughters
 The blood is on your hands, the time has come
 And now she's gonna die
 We've strangled all her trees and starved her creatures
 There's poison in the sea and in the air
 But worst of all we've learned to live without her
 We've lost the very meaning of our lives
 And now she's gonna die
 Once she ruled the earth with love and wisdom
 But we were much too smart to live her way
 With greed and lust we tried to rise above her

The ignorance of man will reach an end
 'Cause now we're gonna die
