

The Casket Lottery "Composing Myself"

Visit "Composing Myself" on MotoLyrics.com

Last night you fell asleep and left me awake to dream.
One guitar in the corner I could hear the buzz of the strings.
The heater was broken, and it was ten degrees.
If you were there you may have seen. It looked like I smoked when i breathed.
And i lost my mind. Thinking about the rest of our lives.
Then again, now that i think, maybe i was asleep.
Last night, you fell asleep and left me awake to think.
That clock on the kitchen wall was serenading me.
My half time pulse was relaxing me. I find if i'm worried its still worth singing.
And i lost my mind. Thinking about the rest of oulives.
Even if its just in my head, I can still scream.
Even if its 4am, i can still scream.

Visit The Casket Lottery page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.