you cant say a thing to save my mind, but you sure can run. and i hate it when you run, 'cause you, you run from me. you cant say a thing to save my life and i need you now, and youre gone. i need you now and its been days since youve started your run. when i need you most youre always running. stand still. look me in the face. pin down all my problems, point them out, and put them up over my eyes. and i'll editall these days 'cause i think its time for a change. you cant say a thing to save my mind and i need you now and youre gone.
