I'm so sick of waiting by the phone for destiny to call.
I've been stuck playing the same part of this game for so long.
And now I'm questioning the ending.
Is there one in sight,
Or am I fated to keep pressing Every button until I finally see it's actually one coin, one play.

This is the soundtrack, of us never going back.
This is the soundtrack, of us never going back

Sailing, out into the ocean blue again
Without a compass or a direction.
Searching for a map to get me out of here,
And if one exists I hope it starts to help me
this part?
It's too hard, I'm just flailing both my arms
But now I finally see it's actually one coin, one play.

This is the soundtrack, of us ever going back.
This is the soundtrack, of us never going back
This is the soundtrack, the sound track
This is the soundtrack, of us never going back

We always think we will find a secret code that will fix
everything,
But you can't unring a bell.
We always think we will find a secret code that will fix
everything
But you can't unring a bell
We always think we will find a secret code that will fix
everything
But you can't unring a bell
We always think we will find a secret code that will fix
everything
But you can't unring a bell

You can't never unring a bell
You can't never unring a bell

I'm so sick of waiting by the phone for destiny to call.
I'm so sick of waiting by the phone for destiny to call.
One coin, one play

This is the soundtrack, of us ever going back.
This is the soundtrack, of us never going back
This is the soundtrack, the sound track
This is the soundtrack, of us never going back

We always think we will find a secret code that will fix
everything,
But you can't unring a bell.

You can never unring a bell
