They say they'll take it away to reassure them
The future is theirs
I hear the words that they say, but don't believe them
We'll take the control, the hour's taking its toll

From the back of my mind
I like to hear you
From the corner of my eye
I still see you
Still believe in you

Everything that you need stand right besides you
But you turn it away
You've got an instinct inside, that's there to guide you
When you make your own way, you chase the future
today

From the back of my mind
I like to hear you
From the corner of my eye
I still see you
Still believe in you

From the back of my mind
I like to hear you
From the corner of my eye
I still see you
From the back of my mind, I

From the back of my mind
From the back of my mind
From the back of my mind

Everything that you see stands right before you
If you open your eyes
Understand your beliefs and we'll expect you
To know where it's at, man, it's as simple as that

From the back of my mind
I like to hear you
From the corner of my eye
I still see you

Still believe in you

So take the control, the hour's taking its toll
Don't throw it away, we make the future today
Taste the future today, we make the future our way
