Pour another glass of wine, find a way to escape
Or should it be different today?
I talk myself to sleep and I make up the truth I'll tell myself that you you're just a little tired and I don't even mean
You still love me

I would say anything to get you to notice me notice me
I would say anything to get you to notice me notice me

Are you trying to punish me?
For your many mistakes
A past that you wish you could change
Tell me that I'm wrong
For all the things that you've said
You never meant
And I everything is little and I don't have to worry anymore

I would say anything to get you to notice me notice me
I would say anything to get you to notice me notice me

Cause all I really want to do is make you happy Can't you see

I would say anything if you would notice me notice me
I would say anything to get you to notice me notice me
I would say I would do anything to get you to notice me
