Pink sunsets and purple haze
I know those magic days
When you go up and down with
The one you love you can't resist
The perfect touch, the perfect kiss
It sends you around, round, round
You're his majesty, you're his ecstasy
You're the spark that shines his light
He's your somebody that should make you feel like
A thousand lives are happening tonight

You can feel what he can do
When your lips are locked, it's true
He's got inside of you
He's got inside of you

You're short of breath, you cannot speak
When you find out he's getting weak
And you're getting stronger and stronger
You find out what he's all about
And now you start to really doubt
That he'll be there longer and longer
You're the energy, you're the beauty
That should make him come through
But if he refuses he's the one that loses
Too bad for him, and only good for you

You can feel what he can do
When your lips are locked, it's true
He's got inside of you
He's got inside of you

Are the sunsets enough to set you off
Is the magic still strong or do you feel like you could turn it off
After all the I do's and I love you's
You, you have to think it through
Is this based on my first kiss (your first kiss)
You should probably make a list
Is he a pro, or is he a con-artist?

You can feel what he can do

When your lips are locked, it's true
He's got inside of you
He's got inside of you

I can feel what he could be
But my heart can't set him free
He's got inside of me
He's got inside of me
