John was a scientist, he was hooked on LSD Interested in mind control and how the monkey held the key
Said that all life is experiments somebody's planning for the heir
It's for the unexpected citizens who hallucinate in fear.
Sing that.

Chew the backbone, A solar system, these clever convicts

In union station, with a package in his hand Tied to the suspect, he chanced him where he stand
And i dont think you realise he's coming for your neck
And the sound is breaking all around He's keeping lives in check Chew the backbone, a solar system, these clever
convicts

Making his getaway threw a punched out mirror
He blend into the crowd, hear the system scream
And all those spies that strikes you here are clinging to their guns And if you smell those omens man, i think you better run.
