I hear a million voices
They're screaming through my head
Messages of death that I could understand
They reek intimidation, they reek retribution
The time has come for you to defy your enemy

I saw you coming from miles away
One by one, I saw you fade away
There's no chance in one man's fear
The damage's done, your strength's undone

Crippled and broken
There's no one left to die
Crippled and broken

Worthless to test this power
And feel the wrath of fire
Senseless these acts of vengeance
Will tear into your soul

Rage of inner strength
To eat you from the inside
And cripple you into infinity

You reap what you sowed, right
You reap what you sowed for nothing
You reap what you sowed for war
You reap what you sowed

I hear a million voices
They're screaming through my head
Messages of death that I could understand
They reek intimidation, they reek retribution
The time has come for you to defy your enemy

I saw you coming from miles away
One by one I saw you fade away
There's no chance in one man's fear
The damage's done, your strength's undone

Crippled and broken

Crippled and broken

Crippled and broken

Crippled and broken

Crippled and broken
