We were young in the summer
Of some year I don't quite recall
But it feels like yesterday

I was teaching you guitar
On the hood of your pick up under the stars
You were in town for holiday

When you left I took a moment
I got a coffee and set off in my car
Just to be where you are

Well, I had to drive all night to get to you
I thought I'd lost my mind but I just knew
That we would be so fine
And I was right, and now I know

It's no wonder that you're such a natural
You got everything I want from your head to your toes
And underneath that smile that has me sold
Is your hundred million dollar soul

So, now we're sitting on the front porch
With the only dinner I know how to make
With a Neil Young record on

A board game by the fireside
Turns into a pillow fight as always
This is where I belong

You had me up all night just like you do
I laugh so hard I cry when I'm next to you
Your brightness is a virus
That lights up the room, and now I know

It's no wonder that you're such a natural
You got everything I want from your head to your toes
And underneath that smile that has me sold
Is your hundred million dollar soul

And when I feel your touch
I still get such a rush

Your body next to mine
Go on and drive me wild

It's no wonder that you're such a natural
You got everything I want from your head to your toes
And underneath that smile that has me sold
Is your hundred million dollar soul

It's no wonder that you're such a natural
You got everything I want from your head to your toes
And underneath that smile that has me sold
Is your hundred million dollar soul
