Verse 1

We make coffee
Make polite conversations
Make plans for the day
And our summer vacation
Make reservations for dinner with friends
We make allowances
We make amends
We make time for the things that don't matter
We make do
Make idle chatter
Make every effort to make the future secure
But we don't make love anymore

Chorus

How did the inches grow into the miles?
How did the silence, silence the sound?
How did we stumble
When we once were so sure?
We don't make love anymore

Verse 2

We make a promise
We know we can't keep
We make progress
But the hurt is too deep
We make mistakes
We've made too often before

But we don't make love anymore

Chorus

How did the inches grow into the miles?
How did the silence, silence the sound?
How did we stumble
When we once were so sure?
We don't make love anymore

Verse 3

We make light of a bad situation
We make a point to avoid confrontation
We make predictions on what is in store

But we don't make love anymore
We making a living
But we're living a lie
And I can't make myself
Stop asking why?
If we're not here for love
What are we living for?
We don't make love anymore
We don't make love

And it's time that things start to change
And I'm tired of it all
