If the love that I could give
Is too much for you to live with Love is something positive with time and space for all
I could be content with less I don't need you to possess
Just one passing sweet caress before the shadows fall

I would be a one-night stand
If that's all that you could hand me
You may never understand me yet I love you still
I don't think you'll always stay
That's not like you anyway
It's enough we have today these empty hearts to fill

So if we can be content
With the time that fate has sent us
Then what is there to prevent us loving wise and well
We are blessed with little time
To play our little pantomime
To fill our lives with dance and rhyme
And cast a loving spell
And cast a loving spell
