I donâ€™t know how the west was won
How the ocean let all the sailors come They came over one by one if only just to see

I donâ€™t know how happiness gets hidden in the wilderness
Iâ€™m leaving in the morning with my paddle and my lime

I donâ€™t know how to find you when All Iâ€™ve been is a lighted window Waiting for the dark to make itâ€™s way back into light

And you will hold me in your arms
And you will hold me in your arms

Maybe Iâ€™m just a pilgrim who is trying to make sense of you now Pray the wind will take me where the space meets up with time
Where you will hold me in your arms
