So you meet her, you spin around in your car
The way you see her, she doesn't know you by far
Your halo shines bright in the night, she doesn't see
For all you can think about now, is how will this be
So you tell her, the things that you need her to say
And you hold her, but somehow she's slipping away
Your halo shines bright in the night, she doesn't see
For all she can think about now, is where will you be
And it gets weaker and it gets weaker every time
You get weaker - from all that goes on in your mind
So you leave her, alone in the street in the night
She is crying, and no one can see in this light
Your halo is gone by now, you don't care
For all you can think about now, is how did you dare
And it gets weaker it gets weaker every time
Still you get weaker - from all that goes on in your mind
And it gets weaker and it gets weaker every time
You get weaker- from all that goes on in your mind
So you leave her
