

Catherine Britt

"A Good Few Years"

Visit "A Good Few Years" on MotoLyrics.com

Swallowing dreams with a cocktail blend
Talking old schemes with a brand new friend
Well it's been a good few years
At least it's been a good few years

Never thought she'd really go all the way
Never really knew until she walked away
Well it's been a good few years
At least it's been a good few years

Sometimes I wake up hearing voices in my head
I sense someone in my bed
Man I hope I didn't take her home last night
It's been a good few years
At least it's been a good few years

Hearing birds breathe on my window sill
Worrying about those last few pills
It's been a good few years
At least it's been a good few years

When I was a child I had make up friends
Why is it today that I can see 'em again
Well it's been a good few years
At least it's been a good few years

Sometimes I wake up hearing voices in my head
I sense someone in my bed
Man I hope I didn't take her home last night
It's been a good few years
At least it's been a good few years

Sometimes I wake up hearing voices in my head
I sense someone in my bed
Man I hope I didn't take her home last night
It's been a good few years
At least it's been a good few years
Yeah it's been a good few years
At least it's been a good few years

