Your dark brown eyes are flawless
But they just hide your growing pride
You used this muse so careless
When did you stop being on my side

You put your life on hold for fame
I watched you grow to a crying shame
You broke my heart just to pave your way
You made me feel like

Always never enough
Always never enough
Always way too much for any man
Should I bite my tongue
Do I play too rough
Should I try my luck with another man
Think I'd rather run while I still can

You're chasing dreams that will not come
You didn't see you'd already won
Too busy being selfish
Too focused staying focused
You drove a crooked bargain
Selling me truths you could not keep
You're such a selfish lover
You make me feel like

Always never enough
Always never enough
Always way too much for any man
Should I bite my tongue
Do I play too rough
Should I try my luck with another man
Think I'd rather run while I still can

You make me feel real broken
He makes me feel real broken
They made me feel real broken
You make me feel like

Always never enough

Always never enough
Always way too much for any man
Should I bite my tongue
Do I play too rough
Should I try my luck with another man
Think I'd rather run while I still can
Whoa... while I still can
