you played the guitar for me yesterday and we laughed about the ones that got away, hey yeah there's a twist in every single turn and there's always something out there to be learned, oh

you gotta cry before it's love part of you dies before it's love you gotta squeeze your hand in ugly pairs to find the perfect glove your heart will break before it's love you'll taste mistakes before it's love you gotta stumble through the silence loose your balance yeah before it's love you played the piano for me yesterday

and we laughed about the ones that got away, hey sang our regrets just like a lullabye it was worth it for the time to realise, oh you gotta clash before it's love you gotta crash before it's love you gotta venture through the darkets parts to see what you're made of

you'll taste mistakes before it's love you gotta dabble in the comedowns yeah to find the, the perfect drug
oh
