"Undertow"

i'm making peace with the undertow sleeping where roses cannot grow forgetting everything i know living with matches in the dark choosing to trust who i am not watching the world burn down, and laughing at the sparks

don't have to live with the do or die smiling is not a compromise free from the need to run and hide the paper dolls dance we do what we can and find the strength in the weakness in letting go

i've come to terms with the undertow the story stays the memory goes realise this is what i chose i've read the lines of the final track saw all the things i can live without already made it through the aftermath
