Velvet and satin and dresses so green
Everyone's dancing with Lady Marlene
Fear is the colour of all that they wear
Mother-of-pearl pallors pulls like her heart of stone

Bloodstains so purple and teardrops of gold
Icicle chandelier shining too cold
Draped in red in her masquerade
Lady Marlene takes your hand and commands thee

Wind to blow ghosts to the sky above
Deep in despair they cry where is the love?
Oh the north wind blows ghosts to the sky above
Deep in despair they cry where is the love?

Flowers so rhetoric, flourish and thrive
Pride must bear pain
But the price is too high
Hanging your weight on extravagant tales
High and pale of the utmost in seeing as

The north wind blows ghosts to the sky above
Deep in despair they cry where is the love?
Oh the north wind blows ghosts to the sky above
Deep in despair they cry where is the love?

(Oh the north wind blows ghosts to the sky above
Deep in despair they cry where is the love?)

(Oh the north wind blows ghosts to the sky above
Deep in despair they cry where is the love?)
