"Worst Is Yet To Come"

Such a little time has passed since you went away Where are all these heartaches coming from I can hardly stand the pain of missing you today and I know the worst is yet to come
If there was something I could find to drive these tears from me
Then I'd go right out and get me one I've already cried enough to fill the big blue sea and I know the worst is yet to come

[steel]

There'll be all these sleepless nights when I'll just lay and cry
And the hours seem to have no end
There'll be days when it won't matter if I live or die
Wishing I could have you back again
If there was something I could find...
Yes I know the worst is yet to come
