Kayak

May

May, now the sun has slipped away

Leaving me cold

Oh, how swift the night unfolds

May, now that light has left the day

Darkness appears

Oh, let me hold you near

So take my hand and trust me my love

Wherever we may go

Together through the world

May, now the blue has turned to grey

Summer fades fast

Oh, how soon the leaves must fall

May, now the swallows fly away

Follow the sun

Oh, how quickly love's undone

So hurry love and take my heart

Wherever you may go

Alone through the world

No one can touch us now

We have our love

And though we can't hold the summer for long

May you will leave though our love carries on

So take my hand and trust me my love

Wherever we may go

Together through the world

No one can touch you now

We had our love

And though the winter will come much too soon

May you must fly by the silver of moon

No one can touch you now

We had our love
And though the seasons will change much too soon
May you must fly by the silver of moon
