I called it clever but I was a fool without you Said I had it together, cuz I didn't wanna need you

You let me fall, while I called it flying without you You let me fall, while I swore I was fine, I was fine without you

I called you a cloud on my sunny day, when you brought me shade,
to kept the heat away
I called you smoke all up in my eyes, when you gave me signs to show the way

You let me fall, and I called it flying without you You let me fall and I swore I was fine without you I had to wise up, to really see love I had to wise up, to see I was missing love, that I was missing love
My heart was hidden behind my face and frame...my heart...
My heart got lost in spider webs and the stupid games I played

Until you...
Let me fall, you let me feel flight without you Then you let me fall, you let me fall, let me see my life
without you
Then I wised up, cuz you showed me love
Then I wised up. I wised up when you showed me love

You showed me, that I don't know life without you .
I wised up to see, that I don't know love without you.

You showed me love, and I saw my life though you.
You showed me love. Now I don't ever want to live without you.
