I've seen it happen too many times
And just where it starts I don't know
You're traveling steady but you don't see the signs
That tell you there's a fork in the road

And you don't think it's right but you're both turnin' away
And the ending is always the same
When suddenly, parallel lives drift apart
And there's no one accepting the blame

But girl, you and I, we got too much too lose
By one of us saying goodbye
And I see it clearly, we're both meant to be
But you got that look in your eyes

Don't go, don't go
'Cause you might regret everything
When you wake up on your own
Oh no, I'm not lettin' go
And I never will surrender what we got together

Layin' beside you, I can't sleep at all
Wonderin' what you're thinkin' inside
Will I wake up and find that You've made up your mind to go it alone for awhile?

And don't say, it's present when it's all in the past
You gotta stop lookin' behind
And take everything as it comes for today is
The first day of the rest of your life

Don't go, don't go
'Cause you might regret everything
When you wake up on your own
Oh no, I'm not lettin' go
And I never will surrender what we got together

Don't go, oh never say goodbye, don't go
Oh no, you got that look in your eyes
I've seen it before, you're gonna walk out that door

Don't go, don't go
'Cause you might regret everything
When you wake up on your own
Oh no, I'm not lettin' go
And I never will surrender what we got together

Don't go, don't go
'Cause you might regret everything
When you wake up on your own
Oh no, I'm not lettin' go
And I never will surrender what we got together
