Look me through your looking glass
Is what you see better now?
Now I know I am not your savior
But I can't stop looking, can't stop looking

Count the days and watch leaves fall
And I know you can't do it all
They underestimate your power
But you can't stop looking, can't stop looking

And can you blame me for this love
I couldn't watch you burn it all
And tears of joy they burn your soul
But I can't stop looking, can't stop looking

Count the days that he's been gone
And find that strength to carry on
If you were here it would be better
But it's not that easy, not that easy
