How ya been?
I haven't seen you for the longest time
Good to see your smile And now I think back, way back when we couldn't be apart

I remember days when it would snow
And you would always get so cold
And it was me that you would run to hold Your cheeks would always get so red, and your toque just a little big Funny the things your remember when you're left alone
to think

These are the things that I hold close even though they're far away
I'm trying to hold on to what we had Days when we were strong and shared all our favorite songs
Those days are now just memories leaving us with Songs that we used to sing
When ya hear the songs we used to sing do you remember me?
I remember every word, every little thing

I remember days when it would snow
And you would always get so cold
Your cheeks would always get so red, and your toque
just a little big
to think

These are the things that I hold close even though
they're far away
I'm trying to hold on to what we had
Days when we were strong and shared all our favorite
songs
Those days are now just memories leaving us with

These are things that I hold close even though they're far away
I'm trying to hold on to what we had
Days when we were strong and shared all our favorite
songs
Those days are now just memories leaving us with
