will I shed one more tear for my broken family and have a glass of whiskey with another friend that has nowhere to be get my feet on the road they feel much better there gonna stop trying some day some year

I meant it when I told her I loved her and I did and I meant when I said goodbye grabbed my suitcase and my kid we'll find another place to call home for a while oh I get to itching I don't know why wandering away

the grey is coming the wrinkles aren't far behind more nights than not I think this is the one where I lose my mind maybe I can get it right this time maybe I can stay up most of tonight cause I don't want to see her come at me again reaching for my neck

all these broken promises in a shoebox full of bones lie behind the crows feet eyes of anyone better when they roam whatever happens then falls under the wheel dancing to a fiddle tune with the devil on my heel

my knees are wobbly my back keeps going out try to sing like a bird but all I can do is mumble and shout and moan wake up to another damn day wish I was magic I'd make it go away last night in a dream I saw her again I tried to scream but couldn't
