Oh, oh, yeah, yeah
The table set for dinner, only just for one
Staring at your empty chair, remembering our love
The crazy laughs we shared, last time you were sitting there

I can hear your voice still calling out my name
And smell your scent upon the pillow next to me
Imagining your kisses when I close my eyes
They don't replace you holding me

A house is not a home when I'm alone here
Summer turns to winter when you're gone
And all I see are clouds outside my window
Everytime you walk out the door

And in the morning as I slowly wash my face
Feel you sneaking up on me, but my reflection
Staring tells me everything, I'm alone
You're not really there

I can hear your voice still calling out my name
And smell your scent upon the pillow next to me
Imagining your kisses when I close my eyes
They don't replace you holding me

A house is not a home when I'm alone here
Summer turns to winter when you're gone
And all I see are clouds outside my window
Everytime you walk out the door

I'm not saying that I just can't live without you
But my life was so much better with you here
You turn my darkness to light
And you make everything all right by my side

A house is not a home when I'm alone here
Summer turns to winter when you're gone
And all I see are clouds outside my window
Everytime you walk out the door

A house is not a home when I'm alone here

Summer turns to winter when you're gone
And all I see are clouds outside my window
Everytime you walk out the door
