When it hurts too much to pretend
And the words burn inside your head
You can't say what you really mean
It's not that easy

But if we never let each other know
Let the light shine in upon our souls
We can dream but we will never see
What life could be

Someday i'll find you
And i'll catch you
When you look my way
Someday you won't be afraid
And you'll find the words to say
They were always there anyway
And i will be waiting

When the tears are slowly melting down
Your heart's stuck on the merry-go-round
Praying you could find a sign for when
This game will end

Someday i'll find you
And i'll catch you
When you look my way
Someday you won't be afraid
And you'll find the words to say
They were always there anyway
And i will be waiting

When you lose your thoughts from a single look
When you can't remember the last breath you took
I will be waiting

When it hurts too much to pretend
And the words burn inside your head
I will be waiting
I will be waiting
