These houses never looked this small before
Yes, I'm still growing more and more
You smile and your smile is alive
It brings shivers down my spine
In my mind, there's a leak in the basement
In my mind, something strange is taking over
In my mind
The light from the window is making me blind
We flow right trough the crowded square
Fire crackers in the air
You push and you pull me along
This night can never be too long
In my mind, there's a leak in the basement
In my mind, something strange is taking over
In my mind
The light from the window is making me blind
In my mind, there's a leak in the basement
In my mind, something strange is taking over
In my mind
The light from the window is making me blind
